Brown, who was away on an outing trip with Mary's brother. Her father was writing to his son and prospective son-in-law and asked the little girl if she had a message to send to Mr. Brown.

"What shall I say, pap?" asked she.

"Why," said the father, "I believe it is the fashion to send your love."

Some minutes later her father inquired:
"And what shall I say to brother Tom?"

"Well," replied the little miss, with a sigh, "you may send my fashionable love to Mr. Brown and my real love to Brother Tom."—Philadelphia Press.

TRIED BY TIME.

Eugene E. Lario, of 751 Twentieth Avenue, ticket seller in the Union Station, Denver, Col., says: "You are at liberty to repeat what I first stated through our Denver papers about Doan's Kidney Pills in the summer of 1899, for I have had no reason in the interim to change my opinion of the remedy. I said when first interviewed that if I had • friend and acquaintance suffering from backache or kidney trouble I would inhesitatingly advise them to take Doan's Kidney Pills. I was subject to severe attacks of backache, always aggravated if I sat long at a desk. It struck me that if Doan's Kidney Pills performed half what they promised they might at least help. This induced me to try the remedy. It absolutely stopped the backache. I have never had a pain or twinge since."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Lario will be mailed to any part of the United States on application. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

HERE is nothing serious the matter, I assure you, Mr. Martin," said the doctor with a slight acerbity, for he had been asked the same question many times, and as his patient was suffering only from a feverish cold, such extreme anxiety seemed absurd to him. How could he know that John Martin, the man who had begun life as an errand boy, and now had more money than he knew what to do with, had only one dread, which was, that the wife he adored, who had fought by his side helped him to win success, might be taken from him?

On this occasion Mrs. Martin had a bad cold, and the doctor had advised her to stay in bed for a day or two. With his wife confined to her room, John Martin was absolutely lost. He had insisted on her having a trained nurse, and he spelit all his time in wandering disconsolately about the house.

"You are quite sure," he said to the doctor, "perfectly certain there is nothing seriously wrong; she-she-is no sickening for anything?"

Only the old man's intense anxiety revented the doctor from answerfag him quite sharply, but he replied agair that Mrs. Martin had merely a severe cold

SLANDER OVER THE WIRE. Missouri Man Files Suit Because of Offensive Language Used by a

A new point has been raised by a suit filed in the circuit court at Macon, Mo., recently D. S. Farmer, of Hart, treasurer of a telephone company, demands of B. F. He expects to make his case on the testimony of a number of patrons along the line who had their telephone receivers down to hear what was going

This is the language the treasurer accuses Jenkins of addressing to him over the wire:

trades people knew him, so he walked for some distance till he came to a side street, and here he found what he wanted. And what a number of purchases were needed! Tea first, of course half a pound at one shilling and sixpence a pound, good, pungent, black tea; a quarter of a pound of sugar, bread for the toast, and a quarter of a pound of fresh butter. Even milk he had to buy, so he bought a penny worth, and a bottle in which to carry it. But this was not all; cups, saucers, plates, knives, toasting-fork, all were needed. He might, he thought, abstract two spoons from the dining-room while Perkins was downstairs, and at the same time he might secure the silver tea-pot But for the silver tea-pot he felt only scorn; his soul hankered to see again on the tea-tray a little brown earthenware pot. So he bought a brown tea-pot and two blue cups and saucers, which reminded him of some Mary and he had bought when they were furnishing their cottage.

Fate was kind in allowing him to en er his house unobserved: he shut himcelf in the library and began preparations. With what joy he examined his ourchases. Mary always said he could out bread for toast better than anyone else, and his hand trembled with consclous pride as he cut two even slices Then he put the kettle-for he had cught a kettle too-on to boil. Now the kettle was singing loudly; he heated the pot, put in a generous st pply of tea and was just about to pour the water over it, when the door opened.

With a guilty start he looked, expecting to see Perkins. However, it was the burst of confidence which surprised himself, explained matters to him. INDEFINITE CHRONOLOGY OF PE

In studying the period of the judges is will be remembered that we were almost entirely at sea so far as chronology was oncerned. From the time of David on the difficulty grows steadily less, and back to the present. The toast wis on vet, as Algen says, it is necessary to prefix the qualifying word "about" to every Biblical date down at least to the beginning of the eighth century. Of the dozen well-known schemes of Old Testament chronology none has won general acceptance. The chronology derived from Assyrian inscriptions is of very great value, though it by no means removes all difficulties. These inscriptions are dated by the Assyrian calendar or doctor who stood there, and, before he canon. This canon exists in severa had time to speak, John Martin, in a copies, all of which agree closely, and cover the period from about 900 B. C. to 650 B. C. Each year bears the name of during the term office of the eponym Pur-Sagali, in the month of Sivan (May-June), the sun was eclipsed. Astronomers tell us that there was a total eclipse of the sun at Nineveh June 15, 763 B. C., thus fixing with accuracy not

But we shall probably never have an accurate chronology for early Biblical history. The orientals laugh at us for being so anxious to get at exact dates and accurate figures. These things were matters of little account to them, as most of their histories show. Prof. Park once illustrated the difference between the oriental point of view and that of the European, by saying that if you ask a German general how many men there are in his command he will tell you to a man, but ask the same question of a Turkish general and he will make a profound bow and say: "By the grace of Allah, my people are as the sand which is upon the seashore." We may well remember this illustration in reading the historical parts of the Old Testament.

As an illustration of the indefiniteness of our knowledge of the dates of early Biblical history we can notice two important incidents. The year in which Saul became king of Israel is variously believed to be B. C. 1095, 1048, 1037 and 1020. Which date, or indeed if any is correct, we have no means of making The date of the beginning of David's reign is as far from by little. tainly ascertained. Ussher sain 1056. According to Biblical symptonisms it was 1009. The Assyrian computaion puts it at 1017. Patton puts it as late as the year 1000 B. C.

Another step toward civilization by heathen nation is seen in the taxing of dogs one yen a year in Tokyo.

The wives of Siamese noblemen cut their hair so that it sticks straight up from their heads. The average length of it is about one and a half inches. The following figures are interesting as showing how the plague epidemic has spread in India during recent years. There were in 1897 56,000 reorded deaths; in 19000, 93,000; in 1901, 274,000; and in 1902, 577,000. #### FACTS ABOUT FARMING.

The Astor family of New York has 6 bought land in Mexico for the largest cattle ranch in the world.

The average gross returns from all cultivated lands in the country is less than $10.50 on acre, and for cereal crops only $8.02 an acre.

As a result of the drought and accompanying agricultural and industrial depression in Australia, a large number of colonists have emigrated to Canada.

Not more than 350 square miles of territory are under cultivation in henequin or sizal hemp, yet on this small area is proluced the fiber that literally binds the wheat harvests of the world.

The racing automobile is the dead liest toy that millionairism has ever amused itself with. It is proposed to dispense medicines by means of slot machines in Paris, and the physicians are earnestly protesting against the scheme as full of danger. The captain of a British tank steamer from London reported on his arrival in New York the other day that his vessel can into smoke from the for-
